Athenian military*:

We will have every Phalanx be in a quincunx (a rectangle with a third at the center) formation
We will also use the Roman Shield Wall
Legion-largest group, made of 10 cohorts, has 5,200 soldiers made of all of the kinds of soldiers
Cohort-second largest, made of 480 men for the nine cohorts, first cohort had 800 men
Maniples- 120 men and 300 cavalry- would use for defense and holding/garrison of structures. Made up from hastati, Principes & Triarii, & legionnaires Century- Base unit, made of 80 men with a centurion in command of them.
Contubernia-Smallest unit, 8 men, shared a giant tent, would use a couple for recon purposes.
Made of one kind of soldier- also had a donkey or mule to carry their supplies
Turma- 30 calvery
We will have 8 full-auto ballista towers(called scorpions) for defence, one in each tower, and two for each gate house

Ranks in the Army:

From bottom to top
Legionary Rank:
Pedes- standard infantry,5,120 per legion
Cornicen- Horn Blower,59 per legion
Tesserarius- Third in command to a centurion, led vanguards, 59 per legion
Optio- Second in command to a centurion, 45-59 per legion[1]
Signifer- held a century's pike that was unique to each century and served as a rally point, also was the century's banker and financial aide, 59 per legion
Imaginifier- held a flag bearing the consuls' images, 1 per legion[2]
Aquilifer- held the legion's Standard, extremely honorable position, 1 per legion.
Centurion- led a century, first rank of large importance. 45-59 per legion.

*We will also use the auxiliary soldiers from the Roman Army (does Rome exist in DND?).-As in we will use the same format the Romans used for auxiliary, not actually borrow Roman auxiliary.

Front lines of Maniples- hastati: They had a bronze breastplate and a bronze helmet, an iron-clad wooden shield, a sword and two throwing spears.

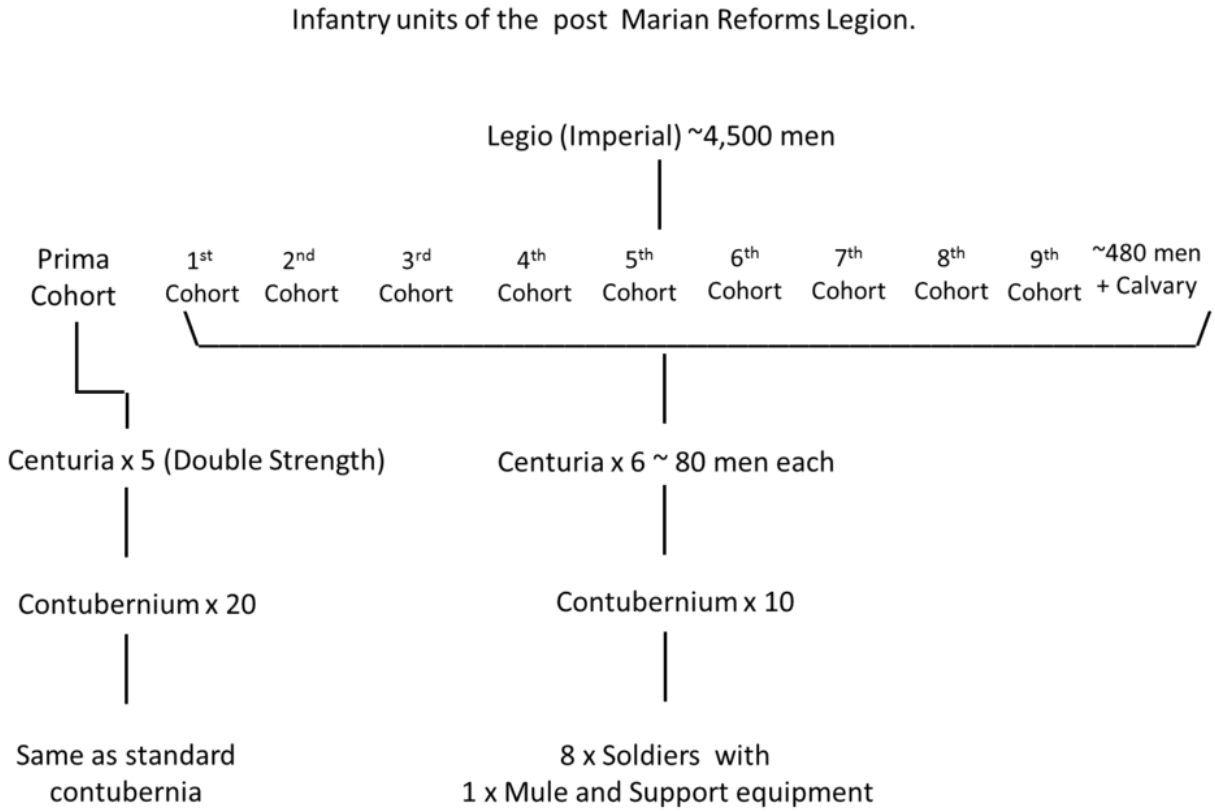
Middle lines- principes They had chainmail and a bronze helmet, an iron-clad wooden shield, a sword and two throwing spears.

Triarii- Heavy armor large sheilds, and spears (no one would get close enough to them why give them swords)-as a back up weapon

Calvary men - a small round shield, a jambeau, chainmail armor, a spear and an iron helmet with a face mask

Mounted wizard - Same as calvary men but no spear of shield and they use magic- might have light armor

Diagram:



*Rewards and extra:

25 years of service for citizenship, plus a large money reward and a pension.
Will probably not have a mask as masks were mainly for ceremonial purposes, like festivals
This Reward is for all soldiers, auxiliary and normal.

Links for sources:

https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Roman_legion#Legionary_ranks
https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Imperial_Roman_army#Personnel